

[continued from page 5]

Esquire CONTENTS

January 2008 / vol. 149 / no. 1

THIS WAY IN

PAGE 10: The Sound and the Fury

PAGE 14: What I've Learned: David Granger, Editor in Chief, 51

PG. 19

MAN AT HIS BEST: THE CULTURE

Daniel Day-Lewis, the greatest over-actor of our time; a celebration of the mustache; and William Vollmann, the greatest wanderer of our time.

MAN AT HIS BEST: THE INSTRUCTIONS

Food and drink for men, including a lesson on the other brown spirit—cognac—and a recipe for baked polenta with sausage. Plus: Answer Fella on "church giggles." He-he-he.

PG. 29

PG. 37

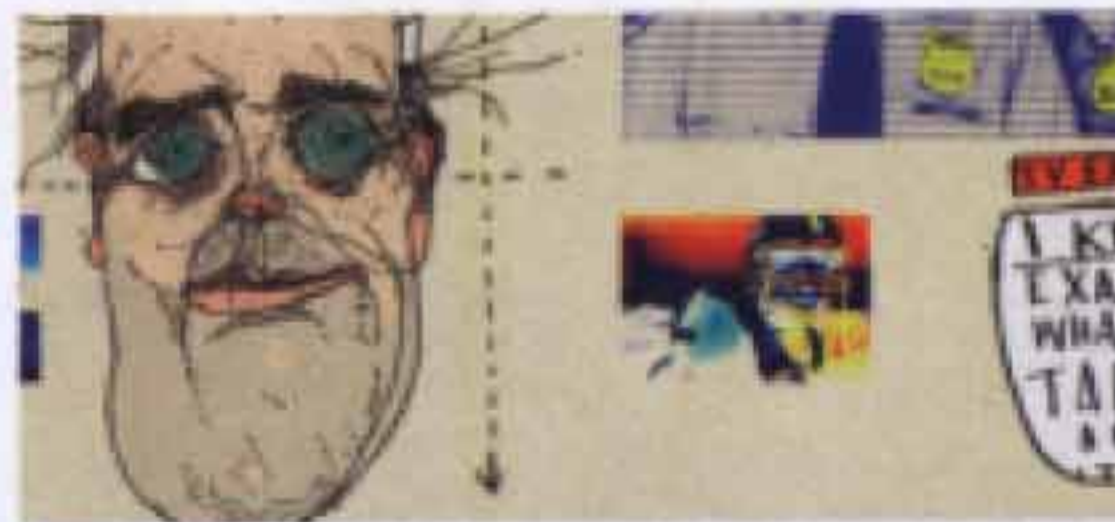

MAN AT HIS BEST: STYLE

A guide to layering, featuring wool, polypropylene, Gore-Tex, and Chevy Chase.

CHUCK KLOSTERMAN'S AMERICA

If you see it, is it real? No.

PG. 44

PG. 49

SCARFACE LIVED HERE

A tour of Esquire North, our modest $8.5 million club-house on Central Park.

ESQUIRE STYLE: BOB DYLAN

PG. 102

THIS WAY OUT

PAGE 124: Percentage of People Fooled as Function of Percentage of Time [BY EVAN EISENBERG]

Upper Terrace ●

DESIGNED BY CLODAGH FOR
WESTIN HOTELS & RESORTS

The fireplace is stocked with wood, the mirrors double the view, and according to the designer, the amber lighting makes people look most attractive. On the last night, we brought up the faux-chinchilla blankets from the living room, lit a fire, and actually saw stars in New York City. Which almost made me feel as good as the fact that I'd made it through the weekend without breaking anything—because the fog machine was like that when I got here. I swear. ■

